

Extra Hour of Daylight Saved Until Next Fall

Rules Committee of House Refuses to Let Repeal Slip In as Rider to the Agricultural Measure

Demand an Open Hearing

Senate Committee Has Too Much Other Work to Get to It Until October

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The extra hour of daylight provided by the daylight saving act will not be eliminated during the present summer. Advocates of the new time system made this confident assertion today following the action of the House Rules Committee in declining to repeal a special rule giving the daylight savings repealer a parliamentary status as a rider to the agricultural appropriation bill.

Before reaching a final decision on the special rule requested in the Agriculture Committee, Chairman Campbell of the Rules Committee conferred today with the Republican steering committee. Upon the advice of the latter committee, the Rules Committee held that the daylight saving repealer should be brought into the House in an orderly way, as a separate resolution.

The steering committee felt that it would not be well for the Republican Congress to offend the residents of industrial centers at the very beginning of the summer by repealing the daylight saving repealer through. By allowing for hearings on the repealer as a separate measure, it was felt that rural residents, who are clamoring for the abolition of daylight saving, would be given no cause for complaint.

Hearings to Begin Monday
Chairman Dyer of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee announced today that hearings upon his resolution discontinuing daylight saving by turning the clocks forward at 2 a. m. on the third Sunday following its approval by both Houses, would begin before his committee on Monday.

Representatives of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who are opposed to the repeal, will be the first to be heard.

Friends of daylight saving said today that the hearings before the House Committee would be so comprehensive that the repeal resolution would not be likely to come up for action in the Lower House inside of a month.

The resolution is reported, however, there is no doubt of its approval by the House by a large majority.

The repealer then will go to the Senate, where it will encounter further delay. It will be referred to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

This committee has more work ahead of it than any other committee of the Senate. In addition to farming legislation for the return of the telegraph and telephone facilities of the country to their private owners, the Interstate Commerce Committee will have charge of all railroad legislation, including that for the safeguarding of the carriers after the properties are returned to private ownership.

It is unlikely that the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee will find time to consider the daylight saving repealer before the end of the summer. Before it acts this committee also must hold extensive hearings.

May Not Act Before October
It is believed by supporters of the daylight saving system that October will have arrived and the present daylight saving period have come to an end before the Senate will get a chance to act on the repeal resolution.

In the meantime it is understood that

A Soldier Says—

"I HAVE been out of the army for almost two months," said former Corporal William Daly, of M Company, 108th Infantry, "and I am just beginning to realize why some fellows resist. There was a time, just before I got my discharge, when I thought that a fellow who joined up again was a nut. But now I understand it thoroughly.

"The army gives you the only real companionship in the world. You get true pals there; fellows who stick with you through anything. They are just like the army life; hardy and substantial. If this is a boost for recruiting I am not ashamed of it. I hope it gets a few fellows to re-leave those now in the army of occupation."

organizations to fight the repeal will have been formed in practically all of the large industrial centers of the country and that they will bring pressure to bear upon Congress to continue the system through the summer of 1920 and thereafter. How successful this effort will be cannot at this time be predicted.

The House Agricultural Committee, in spite of adverse action of the Rules Committee, has not yet lost hope, and Chairman Haugen announced today that he will make an effort to have the repealer considered when the agricultural bill is taken up to-morrow.

The rider is, however, subject to a point of order and Representative La Guardia of New York, has announced that he will be on hand to object when the first move for consideration of the repealer is taken in the House.

Cummings Misquoted on Third Term, He Says

ST. LOUIS, May 30.—Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who arrived here today for conferences with Democratic leaders, declared he had been misquoted in Chicago in a statement attributed to him to the effect that a defeat of the league of nations would cause President Wilson to seek a third term.

"It is idle to talk about third terms," he said, "or of Presidential candidates."

Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, accompanied the Cummings party, but declared he was merely taking advantage of Memorial Day to "play hooky."

Measure of Thanks To U. S. Soldiers Adopted in House

Country's Gratitude to Armed and Auxiliary Forces in Great War Acknowledged Officially by Congress

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Memorial Day exercises in Congress today centered in the official acknowledgment of the country's gratitude to the armed and auxiliary organizations for services in the world war, expressed in a resolution of thanks unanimously adopted by the House.

Representative Johnson, Republican, of South Dakota, who presided, was given an ovation by the house when he took the chair, his colleagues recalling that he left his seat in Congress for service abroad, in which he was wounded.

In opening the exercises, before a holiday through that filled the galleries, the house chaplain, the Rev. Henry R. Couden, offering prayer, said, in part: "All hail the American soldier who turned the tide of war and brought peace to a suffering world! We come together today with tears for the dead, sympathy for the maimed and their mothers and fathers and sisters, who gave their dear ones."

Representatives Mondell, Republican leader, and Champ Clark, Democratic leader, paid tribute to the soldiers, the former asserting that "no words can express the country's thanks" and the latter adding, "We are doing in official manner what crowds have done in a more enthusiastic fashion."

Kindred expressions, coupled with the hope that "universal peace may be the compensation of the world war," were spoken by numerous other members during five hours of speech-making.

Memorial exercises were held at Arlington National Cemetery, the United States Soldiers' Home and at other points under the auspices of the G. A. R., United Spanish War Veterans and Allied organizations, which participated in the annual parade earlier in the day. A special committee decorated the Tomb of the Unknown Dead at Arlington as a tribute to American soldiers who fell in France. Special exercises also were held at the mast of the U. S. S. Maine at Arlington.

Vice-President Marshall was the speaker at exercises at Battle Ground National Cemetery, conducted under the auspices of the G. A. R. and Representative Campbell, of Kansas, spoke at the Soldiers' Home exercises.

Boy Scouts Raise Fund For Decorating Graves

Wreaths Placed by President in American Cemetery at Suresnes Paid For in U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Boy Scouts of the United States by contributions of 2 cents each purchased the wreaths which President Wilson laid today on the graves of American dead in the military cemetery at Suresnes, near Paris. The wreaths were dedicated to the memory of all American soldiers who fell in defense of the cause of democracy.

Arrangements for the placing of the wreaths were made through the White House by Colin H. Livingstone, president of the Boy Scouts of America, who made public the following cablegram sent to the President stating the object of the wreaths:

"Profoundly touched and inspired by the supreme sacrifice of their brothers and fathers on the battlefields of France in giving up their lives freely to save our homes, our liberties and our civilization, the Boy Scouts of America ask you as their honorary president and as President of the United States to have placed for them on Decoration Day upon those sacred burial grounds of France wreaths of flowers as tributes to the glorious memory of our noble dead."

Followers of Russell Holding Convention

The followers of Pastor Russell, who removed their headquarters from Brooklyn to Pittsburgh following the conviction of seven of their leaders on charges of conspiring to discourage recruiting, have returned to Brooklyn and are holding a four-day convention in the Academy of Music.

All of the leaders, who are released following the reversal of their sentences by the United States Circuit Court, are attending the convention with the exception of Joseph F. Ruthford, head of the sect. He is ill in California.

C. A. Wire, vice-president of the International Bible Students' Association, is presiding. The convention is the first of sixteen to be held in cities throughout the United States and Canada.

Grave of Roosevelt Visited by Hundreds

COLONEL THEODORE ROOSEVELT'S grave in Young's Memorial Cemetery, Oyster Bay, was the shrine visited by several hundred persons yesterday. Among them were many soldiers, mostly from regiments from overseas now at Mineola and nearby camps awaiting demobilization.

The grave was completely covered with flowers. The most conspicuous piece was an American flag from Mitchell Post, No. 559, Grand Army of the Republic, of New York City. Another conspicuous piece was a wreath of wild flowers brought to the cemetery by a little girl.

Members of the family were at the grave early in the morning. Visitors came early and late, the last in the early evening. Lieutenant Reynolds, of East Norwich, of the guard force, who was on duty since the funeral, last January, was at the grave during the afternoon to protect it against souvenir hunters.

East Side Organizes To Fight Bolshevism

Also Soldiers and Sailors Will Erect Memorial and Aid Families of Service Men

Two organizations were formed on the East Side yesterday, each designed to combat the spread of Bolshevism and to perpetuate the memory of East Siders who died in the war.

One of them is the Soldiers and Sailors' Association of the East Side, formed at a conference in People's Hospital, Twelfth Street and Second Avenue. The other is the 77th Division Memorial Association, organized at 17 Denance Street.

Delegates from the various war relief organizations took part in the conference. Joseph S. Marcus, president of the Bank of the United States, was made chairman of the Memorial Association. He said a drive would be instituted Monday to raise funds for a monument to the 77th Division's dead, to be erected in Denance Street opposite the Williamsburg Bridge plaza.

One of them is the Soldiers and Sailors' Association will be to give practical aid to the families of service men. Fifty nurses, headed by Julian Goldman, president of the People's Hospital, called on 800 soldiers' mothers yesterday and presented them with flowers.

Baker Praises Troops' Spirit in Camp Talk

War Secretary Addresses 15,000 at Merritt Memorial Day Exercises

Secretary Baker of the War Department addressed 15,000 men recently returned from overseas at Camp Merritt yesterday. The men assembled near the center of the big New Jersey camp shortly before 10 o'clock for Memorial Day services.

The Secretary was escorted to the platform by Major General George B. Duncan, the new camp commander, formerly in command of the 82d Division. Secretary Baker praised the spirit of the men in action and their spirit during the even more trying days after the fighting had stopped. Comparing them to the heroes of former wars, he declared that no cleaner fighting men had ever returned from battle, and that American soldiers had set new ideals for the armies of all nations.

The comrades left buried overseas, he said, would give a new meaning to Memorial Day.

Walt Whitman Gains 'Fame' Villagers Smuggle Bust Into a Niche With Fake Ceremony

A group of persons described as "well-known poets and authors" from the Greenwich Village section smuggled a bust of Walt Whitman into the Hall of Fame at New York University yesterday. The formal ceremony of placing the bust was so elaborately staged that guards and attendants in the building were completely fooled into thinking it was authorized.

The plan was arranged about a week ago, and rehearsed in every detail, it is said. Yesterday several automobiles drove up to the university and the bust of the poet was carried in a suitcase. It was placed next to James Russell Lowell's niche, and the ceremony included the fixing of a memorial tablet to the wall. Chancellor Elmer E. Brown said he knew nothing of the affair.

The place is of about five acres and is considered one of the finest estates in this section. The price is reported to have been $75,000. The purchase gives the actress an entrance on Farragut Avenue, as well as on Broadway.

MISS JANE CARROLL

Woman Takes Advantage Of All Opportunities

Miss Carroll Makes Them if She Can't Find Them, Explaining Success

The brown eyes of Miss Jane Carroll fairly snap with enthusiasm as she talks of her work. She is a born promoter. That is how she happens to be managing promotion for the American Express Company. While it takes some women years of "toiling upward" through the night to achieve business success, her ascent was rapid and spectacular. She explains it briefly thus: "Take advantage of every opportunity that comes your way and where there is no opportunity—make one."

She is a clever talker as well as an original thinker. And she can hold her own with men when it comes to a battle of wits. She represented the American Express Company at the convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce and at the National Foreign Trade Convention, held recently in Chicago.

Part of Miss Carroll's work is editing the "Foreign Trade Bulletin," issued by the company. But the main part of her time is devoted to working out plans for bringing new business to the various departments. There are twenty-five branch offices in Europe, the Orient and South America. There are 10,000 foreign banking correspondents and shipping correspondents in the large commercial centers and ports of the world.

Handling promotion for an organization so vast takes considerable ingenuity and initiative. And there appears to be no lack of either where Miss Carroll is concerned.

Polo Played Again After 2-Year Lapse

Games Are Resumed at Piping Rock and at the Rockaway Hunting Club

HEMPSTEAD, May 30.—After a lapse of two years polo was resumed on Long Island today. Players who went to war took an active part in the reopening of the game. From now on there will be polo each week and a regular tournament will be held at Meadow Brook and Great Neck.

At Piping Rock, a team from that club composed of F. S. von Stade, C. B. Rumsey, C. P. Beadleston and L. E. Stoddard were defeated by a team from Meadow Brook made up of F. McLaughlin, J. Watson Webb, F. H. Prince, Jr. and D. Milburn. The score was 10 to 8, and the game was witnessed by a large crowd.

At the Rockaway Hunting Club two teams, called the Whites and Reds, crossed mallets. The Reds won by a score of 10 to 2. The Reds were E. Q. McVitty, Earl W. Hopper, J. C. Cooley and E. W. Leonard; the Whites, J. D. Richards, C. P. Dixon, G. N. Hecksher and J. L. R. Anderson. For the Reds, Hopper scored 7 goals, McVitty 2 and Cooley 1; for the Whites, Dixon 2, Anderson 1. Dixon set his team back by a half goal for fouling.

At Meadow Brook there was a general round robin played on the various fields. Harry Payne Whitney was one of the old-timers who was in the saddle.

Hylan Orders Inquiry Into Morale of Police

Hirshfield Invites Brooklyn Woman Who Claimed to Give Evidence

Mayor Hylan has directed an investigation into the morale of the Police Department. This has been made known to Mrs. William P. Earle, jr., a Brooklyn clubwoman, in a letter written by the Mayor's Commissioner of Accounts, David Hirshfield. Mr. Hirshfield says he has been asked by the Mayor to look into the morale of the department.

Letters written by the Commissioner of Accounts to Mrs. Earle were made public at City Hall yesterday. Mrs. Earle was asked to appear before Commissioner Hirshfield to be quizzed on a speech she made before the Civitas Club, in which she is president. Apparently the first was without avail, for a second, written two days ago, showed that Mrs. Earle had not replied to the first. In part, it read:

"On the 22d inst. I took the liberty to write to you with reference to the address which you are reported to have made recently at the Civitas Club. At 'Everybody knows that the city government is tested by the character of its police department, and several things have happened recently to the department in this city which will certainly help to break down its morale.' You are also reported to have asked the co-operation of your club for an investigation of the Police Department."

"In my previous letter I wrote that your above quoted statement had been called to the attention of his honor Mayor John F. Hylan, and that he had asked me to make an investigation into the morale of the Police Department, and to invite you to give such information on the subject as you may have, with a view to improving the morale of the department, if such be necessary."

Plays and Players

Walter Hampden's Son Plays Role of Player Queen in "Hamlet"

Owing to an accident to Gloria Allen, who sprained her ankle, Walter Hampden's son, Paul Hampden, twelve years old, played the role of the Player Queen in "Hamlet" at the Thirtieth Street Theatre last night. This is the first time since the days of Booth that the role has been played by a boy.

George Nash's stock has risen perceptibly. Last week while out of the east of "East Is West," he received offers to go back to his youthful vocation of cornet playing.</
